RESIDENT PROFILE

If Boston was looking for a new spokesperson, Peggy Miller would be the one to call! Peggy was born and raised in Dorchester and is the youngest of nine children. She shared that she has so many fond memories of growing up in Boston, but many of her best memories revolve around Boston sports.

One of her brothers, Eddie, attended Boston College and was a member of the baseball team. Ever since then, Peggy has been an avid BC Eagles fan. She used to have season tickets to the football games and was even once invited down on the field as part of a celebration for season ticket holders. Her love for the Eagles hasn't stopped since moving to Goddard; in fact, she recently taught everyone the lyrics to the Boston College Fight Song! Peggy also speaks very proudly of being the aunt of 36 nieces and nephews. She says that there is always someone there to talk to and that they have always been a very close family. If you need someone to chat about sports with, stop by Olmsted and say hi to Peggy!

“Paint nights prove that it’s never too late to learn new things. Teaching step-by-step paint classes is a great introduction to art for those who have not previously explored it. You don’t need to be an artist to be creative and have fun. Even though we all start from the same picture, each painting turns out so differently and shows off everyone’s unique creativity.”

ASSOCIATE PROFILE

Wellness Nurse Roudelyne Joseph, LPN, has been at Goddard House since January of 2018, originally working as a resident care associate on the first floor of Olmsted and recently becoming a wellness nurse. Roudelyne has always wanted to work in the healthcare field. She quietly cares for the residents, making a difference in their days and always bringing smiles to their faces. Roudelyne says one of her favorite parts of her job is talking to the residents and listening to their stories. When she's not at Goddard, Roudelyne, who is originally from Haiti, likes to spend time with her family, whether it's talking on the phone, cooking, watching movies, or listening to music. She attended nursing school while gaining experience working with the residents and associates of Goddard. It was tough, she says, but she is thankful for the support of her mother and her team here at Goddard.

Congratulations, Roudelyne! We are so fortunate to have you as part of our Goddard family!
